The Twentieth and Eleventh Infantry, the only troops at present in Richmond, Va., have been

The Dickson House, a popular house of entertainment in Jackson, Miss., was destroyed by fire on the night of the 4th inst. The loss is estimated at $35,000, upon which the insurance had expired but a few weeks previously. As an evidence of the enormous receipts of the mammoth papers of New York, it is stated that the cash receipts of the New York Tribune for the last week were $62,869.98, which is 30 per cent. more than the receipts of any previous week. Potatoes are made into starch in New England at an extensive rate. A single starch factory in

This is doing very well for an institution the first year of its existence. A curious accident occurred a few evenings since at the Theatre de la Porte St. Martin. Madame B., one of the artistes de ballet, wore on her head a steel crown, surmounted by a star, to which was attached a wire connecting with an electric battery, which when in play elicited sparks of fire; but the shock proved too severe, and the danseuse was struck senseless on the stage; she soon, however, recovered, and resumed her place.

The Petersburg Gazette makes this valuable suggestion: "Some time during the life of Ax-DREW JACKSON he was presented with a sword or snuff-box, which he directed by his will to be given to whatever citizen of the United States should most distinguish himself at some future time by meritorious service to the country. We suggest the propriety of referring to the will of the deceased President, in order that its provisions may be fully carried out. We suppose that either General LEE or General GRANT will be the recipient of this valuable legacy." To show the wonderful rapidity with which Texas is settling, we quote from one of our exchanges the following description of Sherman, a town, judging from its name, which has evidently sprung up since the war: "Sherman can boast of as good a site as any town in Northern Texas. It is situated near the centre of Grayson County, and in the richest portion of the State. It contains as many or more business houses than any town of its size in the State; ten dry goods houses, one large church, one hotel, one boarding house, one restaurant, three groceries, four blacksmith shops. four wood shops, and the finest brick buildings in CROCKETT, on First street, near College street, when Mrs. C., seeing her pass, called her and invited her into her residence. The young lady having been acquainted with her almost from infancy, accepted her invitation and went in. It would be well for us to state here that Mrs. CROCKETT, since her husband's death, has lived secluded, occupying her residence by her herself, and has become a victim to a monomania, in which she thinks that one or two at Boston; and the report says that, verybody is seeking her life, and that her neighbors, especially, have threatened to kill her. After the young lady had entered the house and had taken a seat, Mrs. C., apparently perfectly sane and right, got down the Bible and requested her to read a few chapters. She did so: but after reading for nearly an hour, expressed that she was tired, and prepared to go home. At this time the old lady became excited, and attacked the girl. As the old lady had locked the door. there was no way of escape but by the window. and toward this she ran, screaming. Mrs. CROCKmrr followed, and overtook her, and choked her pretty badly. SATURDAY MORNING, JANUARY 12, 1867. THE LIFE AND CHARACTER OF BISHOP ELLIOTT.

We take pleasure in announcing to our read ers that the next issue of our WEEKLY will contain an able and elaborate biographical memoir of the above-named late lamented prelate, written by the hand of affection. Those desirous of procuring extra copies should send in their names in time.

"THE COMMISSIONER FROM SOUTH CARO-

Not a single day has passed, during the past four weeks, in which we did not find something about Col. Weatherly's "mission" to Washington in almost every change that comes to our office. The name of .outh Carolina is fast becoming odious in the South, and an object of derision in the North,-and all because of what? Because the Courier, in its over-anxiety to obtain a sensational paragraph, published what it was pleased to call an authentic statement of his visit to Washington, given to it from the lips of Col. Weatherly himself. We have refrained from saying anything on the subject, because we thought we knew something of the gentlemen who compose the Senate of South Carolina, and more especially because we have enjoyed a personal acquaintance with Col. WEATHERLY; and we did not believe that the Senate would send to Washington for the purpose alleged, nor that Col. W. would have consented to go on such an embassy. We were satisfied to wait until we should hear from Col. W. himself, and we are pleased to have it in our power this morning to furnish a full and complete contradiction to the many false rumors and so-called authentic statements that have gone forth in reference to this whole matter. The following from Col. W. will ex-To the Editor of the Charleston Daity News:

In the Courier of the 25th December there appeared an editorial statement headed, in capitals, "The Reported Commission from the State of South Carolina to Washington," and on the 5th January another editorial headed, "Col. Weatherly's Statement," it which it is said, "We sought an interview with him" (myself), "and from his lips obtained the important information which we had the pleasure of laying before our readers the following morning." To all this I have simply and briefly to say that I never authorized the publication of any statement concerning my visit to Washington. I was applied to for such authority, and expressly and positively refused it. I have further to say, that the are, in some essential particulars, inaccurate.

For instance-it is not correct to say-and I have never said-that my visit to Washington was "to confer with the President on the probability of the State being restored to her place in the Union should she adopt the Constitutional Nor is it true that I was "a Commissioner of the State of South Carolina," or of her Legislature, to confer with any one upon the subject of the Constitutional Amendment. I did go to Washington at the instance of a number of Senators for the purpose of satisfying my own mind, and to give them the benefit of such information as I might be able to obtain concerning the condition of public affairs. It seems to me that this was a very proper purpose, which ought not to have attracted any public attention, and which certainly has been greatly misunderstood and misrepresented in every direction.

THE REPORT OF THE REVENUE COM-

MISSIONER. Outside of the settlement of the affairs of the South, there is no measure which so urgently demands the consideration of the Government at Washington as the adjustment, on a fair and equitable basis, of the system of taxation which is to be enforced for the payment of the national debt and the support of the governmental establishment. As the passions arising from the war subside, the tariff and internal revenue systems will exact more carnest thought, and require a higher statesmanship than the present Congress appears to possess,-which will be only noted in the future for its promotion of sectional strife and partizan bitterness. Under any system of revenue, the payment of the interests, and a provision for the gradual extinction of a debt of $2,500,000,000 will seriously embarrass many branches of national industry; but when marked, as are some features of the present system, by great inequality and unfairness, it will be a wonder if many pursuits do not decline and die under its withering operation. The people of the North are already giving their attention to the diminished prosperity which at present attend the pursuit of great branches of trade which were formerly very successful and growing, but which have since, and during the war, ceased to be the wealth-creating machines which they were previously. The Commissioner of the revenue, Mr. Wells, has lately made a report on the financial system of the Government. which is attracting considerable attention, and its views and opinions are being noticed at length in many of the public journals. He the number of hands employed in many states that, while the cost of subsistence has advanced ninety per cent., the wages of labor have only increased sixty. This fact exhibits a heavy system of taxation has in diminishing the limited means of the laboring classes. Massachusetts has suffered-the decrease in branches of the cotton manufacture in that State having reached thirty-one per cent., and in the consumption of raw cotton fifty-six per cent. One of the most striking features of the decline has been in the shipping interest, which, before the war, was the pride and boast of the country-the registered tonnage engaged in the foreign trade having, in five years, fallen off over fifty per cent., and formerly exceeded that of Great Britain, but is now thirtythree per cent, less. In November last there was but a single vessel in course of construction at the ship-yards of New York, and only n the opinion of experienced New York ship owners, "that no voyage with an American vessel can be planned at the present time from the United States to any foreign port with a ING-STREET. reasonable expectation of profit." "In many branches of manufacture" (the report states) "the internal rates of taxation, superadded to the high prices paid for raw materials and for

are properly a measure of value, because they are the product of labor, and, as such, the supply of them is regulated by natural laws. But the supply activity of the printing press. place of the spirit of production; distrust and unplace of the spirit of production; distrust and un-certainty are accompanied with extravagance and recklessness. "These hings," the report re-minds us, "have borne heavily on the laboring classes, and on most of the regular industries; have largely increased the cost of living, while they have given to the poor rough of the companyating have largely increased the cost of living, while they have given to the poor none of the compensating advantages which capitalists derive from an unsettling of the value of property." Mr. Wobster's saving is cited as apposite. "Of all the contrivances," said the great Daniel, "for cheating the laboring classes of mankind, none has been found more effectual than that which deludes them with an irredecenable paper currency." with an irredeemable paper currency."

Another cause of industrial and trading disturbance—and perhaps of all causes the most powerful—is the extent of the burden of national taxation. Mr. Wells' illustrative facts are most instructive. Thus, taking the revenue raised by instructive teartion and from customs during the last instructive. Thus, taking the receives target of internal taxation and from customs during the last fiscal year as the basis of calculation, we find that the taxation of the American people is heavier, per head, than that of any people in the world. It was $11.46, gold, per capita, against $10.92 in Great Britain, $7.97 in France, $5.59 in Belgium, $5.48 in Prussia, $5.27 in Austria. An examination of the ratio of taxation to property brings out a still more unfavorable result. In the United States, during the last fiscal year, it amounted to three and ninety-three one-hundredths (3.93) per cont., while in Great Britain it was only nine-tenths of
